Background:

Sales and Use Tax.

Retail sales taxes are imposed on retail sales of most articles of tangible personal property, digital products, and some services. A retail sale is a sale to the final consumer or end user of the property, digital product, or service. If retail sales taxes were not collected when the user acquired the property, digital products, or services, then use taxes apply to the value of property, digital product, or service when used in this state. The state, most cities, and all counties levy retail sales and use taxes. The state sales and use tax rate is 6.5 percent; local sales and use tax rates vary from 0.5 percent to 3.1 percent, depending on the location.

Property Tax.

Property taxes are imposed by state and local governments. The county assessor determines assessed value for each property. The county assessor also calculates the tax rate necessary to raise the correct amount of property taxes for each taxing district. The assessor calculates the rate so the individual district rate limit, the district revenue limit, and the aggregate rate limits are all satisfied. The property tax bill for an individual property is determined by multiplying the assessed value of the property by the tax rate for each taxing district in which the property is located.

Summary of Engrossed Substitute Bill:

Cultural Access Programs.

Counties are authorized to establish a cultural access program (CAP) that allocates funds to cultural organizations providing programming or experiences for the general public. The primary purpose of the organization receiving funding must be the advancement or preservation of science or technology, the visual or performing arts, zoology, botany, anthropology, heritage, or natural history. The CAP funding must be used for a public benefit that generally relates to increasing access, outreach, and opportunities to the public.

Any county may authorize a CAP or enter into an interlocal agreement with a group of contiguous counties to create a CAP. A county may designate an entity or agency to operate the functions of the CAP. A county with a population under 1.5 million may contract with the Washington State Arts Commission to provide consulting, management, or administrative services to the CAP. Any county may establish an advisory council with members that programs. Upon renewal of a tax levy authority for the CAP, as approved by the voters, the county must set a new minimum annual revenue amount for a regional cultural organization.

The funding allocation available to eligible regional cultural organizations is distributed proportionally based on an annual ranking based on each organization's revenue and attendance. No organization may receive more than 15 percent of its annual revenue.

Housing and Related Services.

County legislative authorities are authorized to implement a 0.1 percent sales and use tax in order to fund housing and related services. A city legislative authority may implement the whole or remainder of the tax if the county has not opted to implement the full tax within two years in a county with a population of less than 1.5 million, or three years in a county with a population of over 1.5 million.

A minimum of 60 percent of revenues collected must be used for constructing affordable housing, affordable housing units, facilities providing housing-related services, or mental and behavior health-related services, or to fund the operations and maintenance costs of newly constructed affordable housing, facilities providing housing-related services, or evaluation and treatment centers. The affordable housing and facilities providing housing-related programs must serve individuals with mental illness, or any of the following individuals with income below 60 percent of area median income: veterans, senior citizens, homeless families with children, unaccompanied homeless youth, persons with disabilities, or domestic violence victims.

A county may issue bonds against up to 50 percent of the revenues in order to construct affordable housing, housing units, and facilities providing housing-related services or mental and behavior health-related services. The remainder of the funding must be used for the operation, delivery, or evaluation of mental and behavioral health treatment programs or housing-related services.

Revenues may be used to offset reductions in state or federal funds for housing and related services; however, no more than 10 percent of the revenues collected may be used to supplant existing local funding for such services.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Requested on June 4, 2015.

Effective Date: This bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of the session in which the bill is passed, except for section 405, relating to the constitutional and statutory limitations of property tax levies, which takes effect January 1, 2018.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony:

(In support) There is a reasonable direct line between cultural access and mental health and educating the whole person. The mental health portion of this bill expands the allowable uses compared to the chemical dependency and mental health tax option currently available.

Cultural access is one of five pillars of the regional council; this bill can help facilitate the advancement of this pillar.

This bill gives local communities the option to create programs if they chose to fund them by taxing themselves. The state is not in a position to fund the kinds of programs that it had in previous years. Cultural programs often are cut in times for rescission. Local governments need options to create programs for their own districts. The idea has evolved to include communities throughout the whole state. This will help establish a robust arts economy in the state. This program will serve citizens through heritage arts science programs that will strengthen local communities. It provides access to many people who otherwise could not go to cultural activities and brings events to areas that do not have access to cultural events. Many residents cannot afford to pay for programs or transportation. This bill will help organizations continue to provide reduced or free public access to programs and events, and to bring events out into the community.

This provides a substantial new local tool to meet the growing need for affordable housing and mental health programs in every county in the state. It is very hard to find affordable housing while suffering homeless and other mental health issues. It took ten years to finally receive a housing voucher and no longer live on the streets. There is a crisis for affordable housing especially for people in Thurston County with mental health issues. Mental health programs can help end the cycle of homelessness and eliminate struggles for the next generation. The Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction reports that there are more than 700 homeless students in the Wenatchee and East Wenatchee school districts; the affordable housing need is greater than the available units in the county. Mental health programs are currently underfunded and this bill is one-step in the right direction to allow communities to establish the funding they need to meet the needs of their communities. Despite the great recourses in the operating budget for mental health programs, there is still a great need, specifically a need for affordable housing.

(With concerns) The mental health crises needs to be addressed, but this should be a statewide effort and the local option might not actual achieve the results the states need to address this crises. This could increase inequities in the mental health treatment throughout the state.

(Opposed) Understanding the fiscal challenges of local governments and the need for services, this legislation is regressive and will negatively impact the people it is trying to serve. This will reduce consumer purchases and in turn hurt retail business in the state. Citizens purchasing vehicles already pay an additional sales tax on those vehicles, this could hurt vehicle sales throughout the entire state.
