Time's recognition of Greta Thunberg does credit to her; but, more importantly, to the rising of the masses against those (fossil fuel industry) who would destroy all of us for "profit". It appears the critical mass and necessary circumstances have been attained.

We need to remember and recognize all the environmentalists in the US and elsewhere who also operate globally and locally. Many putting their lives, careers and futures on hold to do this work for decades.

In the US, the public deserves to know why the FBI singles out environmental or left-wing activists - some from decades ago - as top terrorist suspects on its most wanted lists, as opposed to violent right-wing fugitives.

Coal and oil company executives and management hid information about climate change for decades. They continue to lie and obfuscate despite the recently revealed information about their environmental crimes. Their workers are either brainwashed or in concert with their bosses.

We have started down a path we cannot now leave nor turn back. Those opposed to us will use any means at their disposal including violence (think Standing Rock, Nigeria, Venezuela).

Either we risk our lives, safety and comfort to stop what is going on and eliminate fossil fuel use, or the continuing environmental and climate degradation will put us all at risk without our consent and with no palatable recourse.

Make your choice.

Dana
