AGENDA

Land Acknowledgement Statement: Before we begin, we acknowledge that we are gathered on the traditional and unceded territory of the Lummi, Nooksack, Samish and Semiahmoo People who have cared for and tended this land since time immemorial. Truth and acknowledgment are critical to building mutual respect and connection across all barriers of heritage and difference. We begin this effort to acknowledge what has been buried by honoring the truth. We pay respect to their elders past and present. Please take a moment to consider the many legacies of violence, displacement, migration, and settlement that bring us together here today. And please join us in uncovering such truths at any and all public events.

2. Whatcom Community College Substance Use Disorder Professional \(SUDP\) Program \(01:53\)

Tory Sandoz of Whatcom Community College gave a presentation on the college's Substance Use Disorder Professional Program. Main points of the presentation included:

- They have three options, a certificate, an associate program, and a 15 credit program for those who already have a Masters' level degree.
- Definition of a substance use disorder and how it effects the brain.
- Methadone and other medication assisted treatment.
- The role of Substance Use Disorder Professionals (SUDPs) and what they are legally allowed to do.
- Overview of job availability and wage expectations in Whatcom County. They expect that jobs opportunities will grow rapidly as demand increases.
 - Parker asked if the wages are enough to keep people in the field. Sandoz replied that people tend to come into the field for the work rather than the wages. The working conditions make more of a difference than the wages. Taylor added that she sees a lot of conversations surrounding wages and that they have to be higher in order for workers to be able to pay the bills. Members continued to discuss wages, the cost of living in the area, the role the managed care organizations play, the demands of the job, possible strategies to get staff to stay in Washington, training for dual diagnoses, and Medicaid reimbursement.
 - Hammill asked who the providers in the area are and Sandoz listed some that she could think of at the moment.
- Eligibility requirements for SUDP Certification. There are education, experience, exam, and other requirements.
- How prospective students can apply to the program.
- Starting in Fall 2023, Whatcom Community College will be offering a Bachelor of Applied Science in Social Work program.
- Out patient programs do not have family/friend support programs, which, when provided, have better outcomes

Members discussed the presentation including how to address the needs brought up, the possibility of writing a letter to state and federal legislators, the importance of family group therapy, and the utilization of twelve step programs.

Members agreed to add an agenda item to the next Steering Committee to continue to work on a letter to legislators and/or the Health Care Authority regarding the issues brought up during the discussion.

3. Court Childcare Programs: Spokane County and King County models \(45:07\)

Amy Knapton of the Vanessa Behan Crisis Nursery spoke to the group about the Children's Waiting Room program her organization runs at the Spokane County Courthouse. The program has been around for a number of years and her organization recently took it over as the provider. They can care for any children whose caregivers are on the courthouse campus for any reason including jury duty, court dates, meetings with attorneys, jail visits, etc. They can take up to eight children at a time for up to eight hours a day. The goal is to allow the caregivers to focus on whatever they need to accomplish while they are on the courthouse campus. Because the caregivers are technically still on-site, they do not need to be a licensed childcare facility. Committee members discussed the program amongst themselves and with Knapton. Topics included:

- How a similar program can be replicated. Knapton discussed licensing requirements, budgets, types of centers, and work they are doing with others across the state and the nation.
- The Rising Strong program in the Spokane area. Knapton went over her understanding of the program and said that Vanessa Behan has interactions with some of the same families.
- Whether or not respite licensing could be done with an existing childcare center. Knapton said that it was certainly possible, but there is a lack of availability in childcare centers. She also mentioned that volunteers could be relied on to provide care.
- Childcare needs for probation appointments. Jake Wiebusch said that he could see a need.
- Funding and what sources were the most important. Knapton said that the Children's Waiting Room program is contracted through the County. She also stated that they recently increased wages for their childcare staff, which they found to be essential. Richey stated that the community is working on a flexible funding program right now to fulfill some of the childcare needs within the court system.

4. Other Business \(01:09:06\)

Estes asked what the evaluation strategy is for the Law Enforcement Assisted Diversion (LEAD) and the Ground-level Response And Coordinated Engagement (GRACE) programs and if they were tracking outcomes. Mowery suggested inviting Malora Christensen to a future meeting to discuss metrics and outcomes for the programs. Hilley added that dashboards will soon be available with data on GRACE. Flaherty emphasized the need for a data dashboard, ideally one that focuses on equity and community-wide safety.

Parker suggested they re-visit the topic of the advocacy opportunities that they started discussing earlier in the meeting. Hammill said that simply writing a letter would not be enough and suggested that they invite key decision makers to the Task Force meetings to discuss wages and reimbursements. Members conferred about who would be best to invite to the discussion and how best to move forward.

1. Call to Order

Committee Chair Barry Buchanan called the meeting to order at 11:02 A.M. The meeting was held via remote-only Zoom Webinar.

Members Present: Barry Buchanan, Arlene Feld, Stephen Gockley, Dan Hammill, Jack Hovenier, Raylene King, Perry Mowery

Members Absent: Mike Parker, Tyler Schroeder, Caleb Erikson

2. Pyramid Communications \(00:01:08\)

Emily Goetz of Pyramid Communications and Sakara Remmu of Temple Water gave a presentation on the communications and community engagement plan. Highlights of the presentation included:

- Overview, purpose, goals and objectives of their work.
 - They will create 2-4 sets of key messages.
- Communications best practices.
- Adjustments made to the core messaging since the last time they met with the Task Force
- Elements of the narrative structure and the changes they've made to the structure for the Task Force's narrative
- Overarching framing. Remmu presented five options and members discussed and gave feedback on which one they thought best represented the work of the Task Force.
- The primary message will be adjusted based on what overarching frame they land on.
- Supporting messages and the changes they've made based on comments previously received. Members gave feedback on the supporting messages.
- Messaging framework for key initiatives. Remmu showed primary messages, supporting messages, and proof points/background for each of the four key initiatives. Members read and gave feedback.
- Anne Deacon Center for Hope (crisis stabilization facility) being the proof of concept for the Task Force's work.
- Message testing goals, target audiences, approach to engagement, and strategies and tactics. Committee members gave feedback and asked questions about message testing.

Gockley asked Hammill if he thought the communications work was moving in the right direction, as Hammill had been a proponent of starting the work. He said that it was a good start and that he wanted to make sure that they were highlighting the various programs and entities that have been involved in the work of the Task Force.

3. BHGAT/IPRTF Updated Sequential Intercept - Estimates of Resources Needed to Implement Recommendations \(00:55:35\)

Mardi Solomon of Crossroads Consulting gave a recap of what has been happening with the update to the Sequential Intercept Model (SIM).

- The Behavioral Health Gap Analysis Team (BHGAT) has undergone a process to prioritize the gaps in services.

- For each recommendation, there will be resources needed, and the next step is to identify funding sources for those resources.
- Solomon asked members to help fill in the chart by sending her potential funding opportunities not included in the chart, as well as any additional resources needed.

Members discussed the chart, including:

- It is important to let the public know that we are seeking funding from sources other than taxes.
- Some of the listed funding opportunities may or may not be actually available.
- It may be helpful to list action steps in the chart to demonstrate how funding can be obtained.
- Solomon asked for permission send out surveys to the IPRTF members assessing a) their level of agreement with each of the needs and recommendations and b) their level of agreement with the mission, values and goals of the Justice Project. No Committee members were opposed.

4. Update on Justice Project and Stakeholder Advisory Committee \(01:14:30\)

Buchanan reported that they are moving ahead with public engagement and that it is going well. He reviewed the date and subject of the next Stakeholder Advisory Committee (SAC) meeting.

5. Items for the next Task Force Agenda \(01:15:54\)

Jill Nixon, Legislative Coordinator, said that the only thing she currently has for the full Task Force agenda is an update on the competency restoration workgroup. King and Buchanan discussed competency restoration and the amount of time out of custody defendants are waiting for restoration.

Other possibilities discussed included:

- Feedback from on the communications plan. It was agreed that this could be brought up during the Steering Committee report.
- Potential legislative change to allow local competency restoration services. They discussed the involvement of legislators in future planned meetings and the best strategy for timing given the upcoming election.
- Report from the Courts: status of court backlogs, electronic home monitoring, risk assessment, and Friendship Diversion Services.
